The greyhounds to contest the first heats will be selected by adding together the Order of Choice of each greyhound at both Devonport and Hobart and dividing by 2.

A greyhound contesting the first series of Heats is also deemed nominated for the second series of Heats and (if they qualify) for the Final. The reserves for the first Heats that do not obtain a start shall also be named reserves for the second Heats. In the event of a late scratching from the first series of Heats then the reserve to contest the second series of Heats shall be drawn by lot from the full list of reserves that were named but not withdrawn and did not obtain a start in the first series of Heats. Subject to the previous condition, the eight greyhounds accumulating the highest aggregate of points in the Heats shall be deemed qualified for the Final with the two greyhounds with the next highest aggregate of points being named as reserves.

In the case of two or more greyhounds having the same aggregate points thereby resulting in more than eight starters and/or two reserves then the greyhounds to contest the Final (or be named as reserves) shall be drawn by lot.
